

Leaders are rewarded for micromanaging projects

Organsational Politics

Leaders actively listen to all parts of the organisation

Organsational Politics

Our organizational structure feels more hierarchical than flat

Organsational Politics

We feel comfortable deciding with only 70% of information

Organsational Politics

Individual efforts, contributions, and ideas are recognized by management

Organsational Politics

Influence and decisions are directly related to responsibilities

Organsational Politics

Decision-making is often delayed due to bureaucratic hurdles

Organsational Politics

Decision-making processes are transparent and well understood by everyone

Organsational Politics